Athens County Humane Society to Hold Crafting with Canines Event

Athens, OH (Nov. 4, 2016) – To raise awareness of spay and neutering as well as adoption of sheltered animals, Athens County Humane Society (ACHS) will hold a charity event on South Beach at Ohio University, Crafting with Canines.

At the event, there will be various activities including painting dogs' paw prints, a photobooth and Thanksgiving-themed crafts.

The paint will be washable and nontoxic, and children and pets are encouraged to come.

ACHS will provide a donation jar. ACHS also appreciates cat litter and other pet care donations. All donations are appreciated and will benefit ACHS and go to providing low-cost spay and neutering and basic care materials, such as cat litter and food, for animal fostering.

To register for free or low-cost spaying or neutering, registrations are held the first Thursday of each month from 5 to 6 pm at Market on State. More information is available on athenshumane.org/spay-neuter.

Merchandise and refreshments will be available at the event.

The event is not only for Ohio University students, but also community members.
